1. Cuts don't just mean job losses.

They will mean cuts in the quality of our children's education and the standards of our health service. Cuts attack the fabric of society.

2. We can easily afford public services if everyone pays their fair share.

The 1000 richest people in are worth £330 billion pounds and their wealth has increased by 30% in the last year. £330bn is enough to clear the deficit - twice over.

3. Cutting public sector jobs will mean job losses in the private sector

There will be a knock on effect from Public Sector Job losses. Economists believe that at least one private sector job will go for every public sector job loss.

4. There's a better way
